About HEPC

Handloom Export Promotion Council (HEPC) - A nodal organization under the Ministry of Textiles, Government of India was constituted in 1965 to promote the exports of Indian handwoven products like fabrics, home furnishings, carpets, floor coverings and clothing accessories. The main objective of HEPC is to provide support and guidance to Indian Handloom exporters and International Buyers for trade promotion and International Marketing.

HEPC is the gateway for international buyers for sourcing a wide range of handwoven products from around 2000 of its member-exporters spread all across India. HEPC also acts as an interface between international buyers and Indian exporters by undertaking various export promotion activities that serve their interests.

International buyers are reassured by the fact that HEPC is an undertaking of the Government of India with the express aim of promoting handwoven exports. They will have ready and easy access to the entire spectrum of Indian handwovens, and to any information they will require during the process of interaction. In fact, the Council has already taken measures to help Indian exporters to establish longstanding business relationship with international buyers.

HEPC arranges buyer-seller meets, reverse buyer-seller meets, trade delegations and participation in international trade fairs across the globe. HEPC provides its members valuable services such as market development assistance and commercial intelligence on trade, as well as guidance on technology up-gradation, quality & design improvement, product development and colour & design forecasts.

HEPC plays a pivotal role in the Indian handwoven revolution, by effecting a vigorous rural revitalization through a greater global reach of Indian handwoven products.

India Handloom Brand

"India Handloom" brand has been launched by the Ministry of Textiles, Govt. of India to endorse the quality of the products in terms of raw material, processing, embellishments, weaving, design, defect free handwoven authentic niche products having Zero defect and Zero effect on the environment and other parameters besides social and environmental compliances for earning the trust of customers. The concept of "India Handloom" is to brand the handwoven products which are exclusively catering to the "quality" need of the socio-environmentally conscious customer. "All India Handloom Brand products are 100% defect-free and do not compromise on the usage of natural colours, skin-friendly dyes and natural fibres. Please visit www.indiahandloombrand.gov.in to order your chosen product from any of the IHB e-commerce partner sites".

The introduction of "Handloom" Mark by the Government of India is also helping in establishing a clear identity of genuine handloom products with the consumers.

Enchanting Indian Handlooms

Fabrics woven by hand are popularly known as handloom fabrics. They symbolize the diverse and rich Indian cultural heritage. For centuries, the Indian master weavers have produced some of world's most, exquisite fabrics on handlooms in cotton, silk, wool, viscose, linen, jute and their blends which have captured the fascination of connoisseurs and the common buyers across the globe. And they continue to do so even today, adapting to the contemporary tastes of the new generation of the new world.

Buyers and designers from the world over will once again have an opportunity to explore the newly developed collections by thousands of master weavers across India.

Interior designers and retailers will find instant solutions to their most common product requirements.

India's prominent role in textile stems from its wealth in natural resources, namely silk, cotton and jute. These resources along with traditional skills passed down from generation to generation, adapting and maturing over time, give Indian Handloom its uniqueness.

The home decor segment of Indian handlooms has, of late, claimed a place of eminence in the international market. For example, the bed, table and kitchen linen products from Karur, Kannur and floor coverings from Panipat have become truly global lifestyle products catering to the discerning consumers and niche markets. Their natural fibre base, consistent use of organic dyes, creative designs from culture and history, and uniqueness of individual pieces make Indian handlooms a personal style statement. The entire production cycle of handwoven textiles is eco-friendly.

Today, the world is witnessing a modern and contemporary approach in producing Indian handloom products. The initiatives and efforts of the Indian Government along with the new, emerging international lifestyle trends augur well for the increase in demand of Indian handwoven products in the clothing sector.
